Custom Project - Design & Realisation

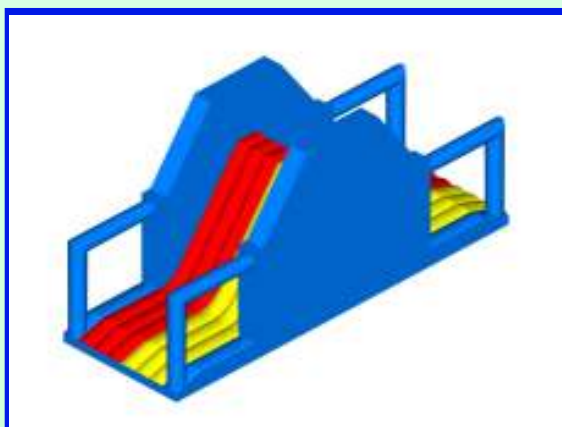

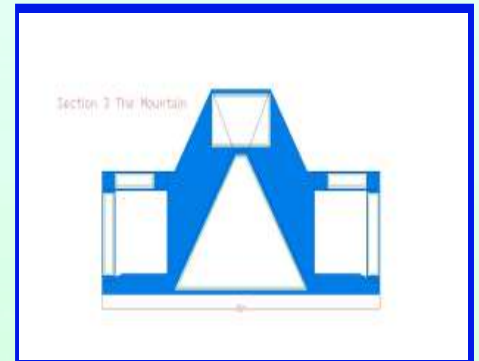

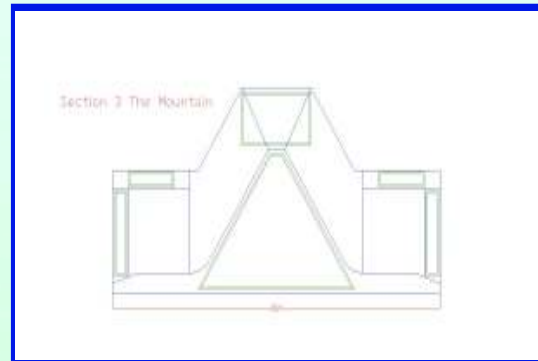

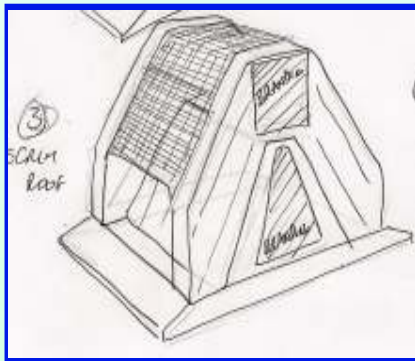

Turns:

Into:

Into:

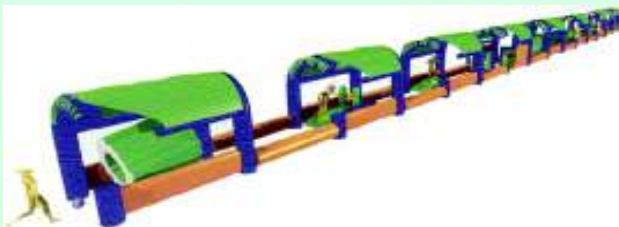

Every one of the worlds most successful promotional products has had a starting point, and it is from this birth that we are able to offer our full service based on many years of experience within this market. As large scale Operators, and more recently producers, we feel that the end product should fill the needs for todays marketing demands, while still having enough flexibility in it's design to be practical tomorrow.

By having Fun Factory as your project partner, we can acomplish this goal.

Many of our ideas designed in the Mid 1990's are still effective and functional today.

Due to materials technology improving, a wider range of support components being developed and a forever widening target group appearing, a huge market is opening, and the only restriction is one's imagination.

Many of our brand new ideas are still waiting for an outlet in the market.

A key word in absolutely every branch of business today is safety... and with this aspect in mind, we are actively involved in maintaining the standards we believe should be kept.

Visiting trade fairs worldwide to keep up to date with the international markets, and membership of various professional trade organisations have also kept Fun Factory at the cutting edge of the market.

A more recent addition is our inclusion into the Register of Play Inspectors International (RPII) which has set a standard of safety which will soon be used internationally.
